Intruders push firearm into woman's face

FOUR men who burst into a house in Harlow and threatened a woman with a firearm are being hunted by police.

The break-in happened between 10-11pm on Monday when the group forced their way into the property in Old Road and pushed a handgun in the woman's face before stealing cash and jewellery.

Gang of thugs film attack on mobile phones

DETECTIVES investigating an assault on a man which was filmed by his assailants on their mobile phones are reviewing CCTV of the attack in Harlow.

The 49-year-old victim is in a stable condition in hospital after sustaining a fractured eye socket and other severe facial injuries during the assault, which happened at the back of the library off Tilegate Road in Bush Fair at 9.30pm on Thursday.

STAR REPORTER

star@hertssexnews.co.uk

The man, who lives in Harlow, had been walking along grassland when he was approached by a group of five young men who punched and kicked him unconscious before then filming him on their mobile phones.

Detective Constable Ryan Burgess said: "We have now looked through the CCTV evidence which clearly illustrates the extent of this quite violent attack.

"There were six young men and one woman in this crowd but only three of the boys actually took part in the physical assault. The remaining three boys - one of whom was on a bicycle - and the woman were bystanders.

"Given that it is good-quality

Groper grabbed woman's breast and slapped her on the bottom

A MAN who groped a terrified 55-year-old woman after having previously attacked a teenage girl has been spared jail by a judge who told him he was "not a danger to women yet."

Recorder Patricia Lynch imposed a two-year community order on fast food worker Terry Allen (22), of Whitewaits, Harlow, when he appeared at Chelmsford Crown Court for sentence, having been convicted of assault at the end of a two-day trial earlier this year.

The victim was walking home along one of Harlow's cycle paths last September when Allen grabbed her breast and squeezed it, tried to pull down her skirt and slapped her bottom.

The court was told the attack left the woman so traumatised she cannot walk home from work alone.

Allen, who was wearing his McDonald's uniform at the time of the attack, ran off but was stopped later by a police community support officer as he matched the victim's description of the attacker.

He claimed he was not the person responsible and blamed it on someone else who worked at McDonald's.

However, after his conviction it was revealed he had a previous conviction in 2011 for assaulting a 14-year-old girl, again on a cycle path, who he attacked from behind.

Passing sentence, the judge told him "I don't think you are a danger to women yet, but I think that in time you could be. You still say it was not you; you are in complete denial. It was obvious that you were lying and the jury saw through you."

As conditions of the community order Allen must be under supervision for two years, undergo 30 days of mentoring and attend a sexuality and relationship course.

Allen must also sign on the sex offenders' register for five years.

Shock and anger at sudden closure of popular sports club

A POPULAR sports and social club that has stood in Harlow for over 50 years is to be bulldozed to pave the way for Harlow's new Enterprise Zone.

Shocked staff at The Maypole, on London Road, turned up for work on Tuesday morning to find the building boarded up and the gates locked.

They were later informed by club chairman Jeff Boucher that joint operators Pearson Education and Synthomer had surrendered the lease to site owners Newhall Projects with immediate effect.

The Star understands the facilities will now be demolished to make way for a new road linking the B1184 to the Newhall development to improve the area's transport links ahead of the development of the Enterprise Zone.

The news has left staff, members and the sports teams who use the club's facilities reeling.

Eddie Davis, secretary of Maypole Athletic FC, said: "I got a phone call in the morning from the chairman of the football club saying that he had heard a rumour about the club closing. Half an hour later he told me it was true."

"It was all so quick. We had been aware about the possibility that the land would be sold but with the provision that they would build another clubhouse, so we weren't expecting this.

"There is no future at the moment - we'll keep on trying to find a new space but this could be the end."

One Maypole employee, who asked to remain anonymous, said: "I am devastated, as is everyone else here. It wasn't just my work place but somewhere I socialised and it was a massive part of a lot of people's lives. It's really upsetting."

"It's like a grieving process and obviously now we have to look for who use the grounds. It's a wonderful club that has given service and support to many hundreds of residents over the years.

"What has happened is unacceptable - the manner of closure, the lack of notice and the lack of thought given to the impact on our community."

But a spokeswoman for Pearson - the publishing firm which co-owned the club's lease - said the club's closure was directly linked to the planned redevelopment of the area into Harlow's new Enterprise Zone.

"Pearson can confirm that we have surrendered our lease of the London Road North site back to Newhall Projects, the landowner, in order to make way for development as part of the Harlow Enterprise Zone," she said.

"Pearson is mindful of the potential impact on the local community and is committed to helping all affected by the club closure. The company will be offering practical and financial support to help the transition for all involved."

"We are now working with the club management and the community to ensure our responsibilities to employees and members are met."

The Star approached Newhall Projects for comment but the firm had not replied by the time the paper went to press yesterday (Wednesday).

new work. We haven't been told about pay. I think the way this has been done is disgusting."

Harlow MP Robert Halfon, who competed in an eating challenge at the Maypole last week, said: "I am shocked and saddened by the closure of the Maypole club."

"I have every sympathy for staff, members and all the sports clubs

Town's poorest households are being driven to penury

SIR, Councillor Tony Durcan claims Harlow Council had no choice but to demand that the poorest householders in the town pay at least 24 per cent of their council tax bills (Star, June 27).

Harlow's tax on the poor is higher than that in any neighbouring district. Epping Forest council charges 20 per cent and Broxbourne 20 per cent (while also continuing to exempt the sick and those with disabilities) while East Herts is charging 8.5 per cent.

Furthermore, 28 per cent of local authorities continue to charge the poorest householders nothing at all.

One of the councils that charge zero is solidly Conservative-run Harrogate. A comparison of the financial positions of Harlow and Harrogate as of 2011 reveals that the former appeared to be in a more favourable situation than the latter, for whereas 37 per cent of Council Tax Benefit claimants in Harlow were pensioners, the figure in Harrogate was 55 per cent. There were 9,000 plus claimants in each district.

Local authorities are prohibited from applying the Government's 10 per cent cut in funding for the new Localised Council Tax Support schemes to pensioners. Thus the larger the proportion of pensioners, the greater the cut in the money available for working age claimants.

According to Entitledto Ltd, the cut in government spending on working age claimants in Harlow was 16 per cent compared to 22 per cent in Harrogate. There appears to be no financial reason why Harlow Council could not have chosen to continue to provide 100 per cent council tax relief to the poorest householders.

The imposition of a 24 per cent council tax charge on the poorest householders in Harlow means a reduction in income of six per cent or more for a single householder on Jobseekers Allowance.

Harlow Council's policy appears to be a fundamental attack on the principle of progressive taxation: that those most able to pay bear the greatest burden. It seems that the poorest householders in the town are being driven to penury in order to protect better off householders from an increase in council tax.

It looks like Harlow's Labour-run council has crossed a line that even some Tories would refuse to cross.

READER Daniel Cole, of Altham Grove, Harlow, writes: "I wonder if you would consider this photo of some fungi growing around the base of a tree. I took it while walking through Marshgate Nature Reserve."

If you have a photo taken in Harlow you would like to feature in our Photo of the Week section, email a high resolution copy in JPEG format, along with a description of your photo and details of when and where it was taken, to star@hertsessexnews.co.uk. Include your name and address and insert 'Photo of the Week' in the subject line.

>> Responding to last week's photo by Bernie Morgan of a woodpecker at Parndon Wood Nature Reserve, Ian Rose writes: "It is a very good photo but the bird is not a Lesser Spotted Woodpecker, it's a Great Spotted Woodpecker. The Lesser is a much smaller bird, about the size of a Greenfinch, and does not have a red rump. It is also considerably rarer than the Great."

coalition government, the opposition and the braying variety of donkeys that fill the seats in Parliament during PM's question time on Wednesdays.

It could also be used to describe senior civil servants, senior trade union officials and especially those who preside over the death of too many people in our hospitals.

We have a prime minister who is happy to borrow even more money to give away to fund the lifestyles of African despots whilst we have too many people in desperate need here in Britain.

We have a shadow chancellor who insists the best way to get out of the debt - engineered by himself and the leader of the opposition during 13 years of advising Gordon Brown - is to borrow more. Comparing Ed Balls, in particular, with a donkey is to insult the intelligence of a hard working animal!

And we also have a whole cadre of people who scream 'racist' at anyone who dares to suggest that maybe we have too many freeloading immigrants.

In citing the incompetence of just one set of senior managers, Mr Halfon is just touching on the very edge of the problem of overpaid and underqualified "managers" in the public sector, including his own division of it.

Success among them is a rarity and the lack of it rewarded altogether too handsomely. Whilst the various party machines continue to rule out democracy nothing will change.

Twice in my now quite long life I have had the need for an ambulance to collect me from my home and on both occasions I had absolutely no cause for complaint. So, despite the lack of managerial skills at the top which seems to be the norm, in my case at least, the troops proved to be on the ball.

Did anyone else catch a sight of this bird of prey?

SIR, Through your letters page I would like to find out if anyone saw the bird of prey soaring over the field in Orchard Croft at The Stow last Sunday afternoon. I saw it from the back garden of my girlfriend's house heading in a westerly direction. I am no judge of heights but I would say it was pretty low and a significant thing was how you couldn't hear any other birds.

It had brownish patches on its underwing against creamy white feathers. The deeply forked tail was what I think may give it away. When I got home I did a bit of research which pointed to it being a Red Kite. I also read that they have only been recently introduced into England in the last 10 years.

Can anybody else verify this sighting?

Driver shouted abuse as he drove across the pavement

SIR, I am happy to be a resident of Harlow and have been since moving out of London some five years ago.

But today, as my family and I were walking home, we were almost hit by a white car driven by someone who thought it perfectly fine to drive along the pavement.

We had stopped at a zebra crossing on Third Avenue. Just as it signaled for my wife, 12-year-old daughter and two-year-old son in a buggy to cross the road, the driver of this large white car with a non-English registration turned onto the zebra crossing, drove straight towards my son, zipped passed him, shouted abuse out of the passenger window and drove onto the pavement.

The driver then confidently drove along the sidewalk, sticking his fingers in the air out of his door window.

Life is too wonderful to give up without a fight

SIR, I would like to say a very big thank you to all the people who recently have taken so much care of me.

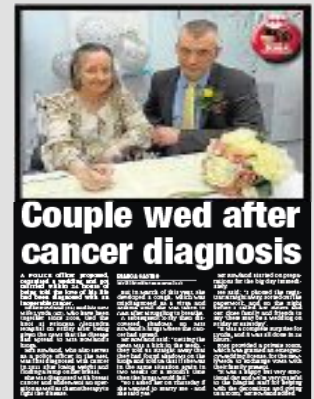

In December 2010 I was diagnosed with breast cancer and underwent a year of therapy and surgery. I was in remission and looking forward to a long and healthy life but unfortunately the cancer came back.

In March of this year I got a cough which steadily got worse, but at the time it was hoped this was just an infection.

I finally got the correct diagnosis and was again started on chemotherapy, but my heart and lungs had become severely compromised and on June 25 I collapsed at home. Mike, my then partner, rang for an ambulance which rushed me to Princess Alexandra Hospital.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank each and every person with whom I had the pleasure of coming in to contact, from the paramedics who got me to hospital, the A&E staff for bringing me back and the wonderful staff on Harvey Ward who looked after me with so much loving care and diligence for the next nine days. It is not only the medical staff for whom I have great thanks, it is everyone from the porters, cleaners, cooks, ward managers and back office workers.

And so this leads me onto a very happy note. Mike asked if I would like to marry him while I was in hospital. We have been together as a couple since 2006 and in no

Couple wed after cancer diagnosis

rush as we were both second timers. Of course I said yes; let's face it, death had sat at my bedside and decided that for now we could part company.

I'd like to thank the registrars who bent over backwards to organise a wedding in 24 hours. While I was still very poorly, things were happening all around me and Mike gathered friends and family which wasn't easy when our families all live in the north. But come they did and poured every effort into making our wedding day perfect for me and Mike.

The hospital staff were exceptional. They managed to get a single room on the ward in which to hold the ceremony and went to great lengths to decorate it with balloons and confetti, even using bedsheets as swags for the doors so I could make my entrance and they played me down the ward with the wedding march to much cheering.

It was for me a very humbling and loving experience. It was what true marriage vows are about, an affirmation of love, and being together in sickness and in health until death.

Hopefully I will get the cancer back into remission and keep it there for as long as possible.

This message is for anyone reading this letter - if you have any medical worries, unexplained coughs, lumps, bumps or just don't feel right, please don't soldier on thinking it will go away. It may be nothing but there is always the chance it is not. The sooner you get it sorted with your GP or specialist, the better chance of recovery and future good health.

The NHS here in Harlow is, I believe, second to none. I have great faith in the team of doctors who are looking after me. So please each and every one of you out there, take care of your health. And thank you for taking the time to read this and sharing my experience. Life is too wonderful to let go of!

Trainee mechanic receives coveted apprentice award

A HARLOW College student has been named 'Apprentice of the Year' after impressing judges including former British Airways boss Willie Walsh and The Apprentice star Karren Brady.

Elliot Shakeshaft (21), who is a motor vehicle apprentice at the Velizy Avenue college, is currently on placement with Kier Harlow's transport team, where he works on a fleet of 180 vehicles.

The trainee mechanic was nominated for the prestigious London Loves Excellence award by his employers, having already scooped the IMI Level 2 Apprentice of the Year.

Elliot, of Old Harlow, picked up his award at a glitzy black tie ceremony held at London's Marriott Hotel.

He said: "I'm overwhelmed, it's a really good feeling. I'd like to thank my tutors at Harlow College for supporting me and my colleagues at Kier Harlow for giving me the opportunity to go for the award."

"Eventually I'd like to run my own garage business and this is a big boost to my confidence. It's great for my CV."

The award recognises the efforts of apprentices from all over the country who have shown an exceptional contribution to their workplace.

Tina Flint, assistant transport manager at Kier Harlow, said: "Elliot approaches his apprenticeship and work with a great 'can do' attitude and is always willing to learn and follow guidance from his mentor."

CCTV, I'm now looking for those bystanders to contact us as witnesses otherwise we will have to go to their homes and arrest them."

He added: "This was a disgusting, senseless attack and we want to identify these violent thugs as soon as possible so they can be arrested and taken off the streets."

"They do not deserve to be out in public. We would urge anyone who saw the assault to contact us, but also appeal to those who may know who did it through recognition of the descriptions provided and their absences from their homes on that Thursday night when darkness was falling."

The assailants are all white, in their late teens or early 20s and were wearing grey tracksuits.

Anyone with information in connection with this assault is urged to contact detectives at Harlow police station on 101.

Raiders push gun in woman's face

Armed officers carried out a search of the area, and the police helicopter was scrambled to carry out an aerial search of the area.

Detective Constable Ryan Burgess said: "We're confident that people living on Old Road near to its junction with Bury Road would have seen and heard a commotion. We would urge them to contact us so that we can identify these men while also allaying this woman's fears for her safety."

Three of the four suspects were wearing balaclavas while the fourth is described as black and was wearing a blue top.

Disabled family's bedroom tax fear

A DISABLED family fear the so-called 'bedroom tax' could result in them falling into rent arrears on their specially-adapted council home.

Teresa Price (46) and her husband Tom (48) have lived in their Milwards home for 18 years with their eldest son, Daniel.

The house has been modified to accommodate the family's needs and now features a wet room, stair lift and hand rails. But under the Government's new formula the family are deemed to have two additional bedrooms and will see a reduction in their benefits as a result - something that Mrs Price fears will put the family into rent arrears.

When the Price family applied for discretionary housing payments - an aid for those who struggle paying their rent or council tax - the council discovered they had overcharged the family in excess of £3,000.

The council reimbursed the family who were then told they were not entitled to the financial aid as a result.

Mrs Price said: "We applied for discretionary payments and were told that we would get it. When I explained that the three of us are disabled they said it was no problem as there wouldn't be a smaller home available with the modifications we need."

"It took months to apply and then they told that they hadn't realised my son was disabled and we'd been overpaying. They gave us back our money, which we used to pay off our bills. We have a little left over for our rent but soon we will be going into arrears."

"Soon I won't be able to afford our rent. Two extra bedrooms will cost too much and we will go into rent arrears."

BIANCA CASTRO

bianca.castro@hertsessexnews.co.uk

The welfare reforms, which came into effect in April, have cut the amount of benefit residents receive if they are considered to have any spare bedrooms.

The mother-of-three, who suffers from severe arthritis, added: "Before this bedroom tax we paid our rent every month. I wish they had never realised their mistake and we would have got the discretionary payments and could pay what we need to."

"I just do not have the money to pay without help. I don't know what to do."

Councillor Tony Durcan, cabinet portfolio holder for resources & enterprise, said: "In considering an application for DHP the council will review the benefits and allowances already received by the applicant."

"We understand these are really tough times for Harlow residents and we want to work with them to ensure they receive the right benefits at the right time. We don't like the new system but we will make sure everyone is treated fairly."

Harlow MP Robert Halfon said: "This is not a bedroom tax but a single room supplement that is supposed to help not hurt - help those in need of bedrooms and encourage those who can to downsize."

"There is help available for the council to help families like Teresa's who clearly need the money. The council have been given hundreds of thousands of pounds for the New Homes Bonus and they can spend it on anything."

"The council should be using some of that money to protect people like the Prices."

Cheerleaders revel in competition success

TEAMS of cheerleaders from Harlow reached for the stars in their latest competition - and came home with an impressive haul of glittering trophies.

The Galaxy Cheerleading Academy, which is based at the Sumners Leisure Centre, entered groups comprising almost 60 members in the Future Cheer Bournemouth competition - the biggest event of its kind in Europe.

Starburst, the youngest team, and Evolution, one of the senior groups, both took home second place trophies.

For both Starburst and Shooting Stars teams the competition was the first of its kind they had taken part in.

All the groups were placed within the top ten spot.

Claire Eels (40), whose two daughters are both Galaxy cheerleaders, said: "It was superb and we are all over the moon.

"The groups were ecstatic with how they did. We have been training since our last competition in March so they all know their routines so well.

"Everyone loves doing it and they just continue to improve."

The academy will be showcasing their competition routines at a fun day in the Sumners Leisure Centre on Sunday from 11am-3pm.

Woman posed as veterinary nurse for year

A WOMAN who spent almost a year working as a veterinary nurse despite not being qualified for the job has been warned she could face jail.

Chelmsford Magistrates Court heard that Amy Victoria Wood (25), of Brook Lane Field, Harlow, earned nearly £3,000 after duping practices in Harlow, Hatfield, Hoddesdon and Hampstead as well as a recruitment agency in Harrogate.

On Friday she admitted five offences of fraud by representation between January 4 and November 27 last year.

Although sentencing was adjourned until July 30, Wood was warned that she could be imprisoned for her deception.

The court was told that Wood worked at the Kew Vets surgery in Harlow, the Royal Veterinary College in Hatfield, Walton Lodge in Hoddesdon and Village Vets in Hampstead. She also applied to a recruitment agency in Harrogate and twice used the identity of a qualified veterinary nurse.

Barry Hargreaves, prosecuting, told the court: "These offences arose between January 4 and November 27 last year by representing she was a veterinary nurse when she was not qualified in five different practices around the country.

"At Harlow she was earning £18,200 a year and was paid £1,200. In Hatfield she earned £677.54, in Hoddesdon she was on £20,000 a year but didn't actually get paid - she had used the name Amy Bush claiming it was her married name - while in Hampstead she received £984.

"At Harrogate she applied for jobs through a recruitment company, again using the name Bush."

He said: "It's not a huge amount of money but it's a huge breach of trust. People trust vets to look after their animals. She did go on a veterinary nurse's course but failed the final exam."

Christine Fernando, representing Wood, said in mitigation the defendant had worked as a veterinary nurse while living in Australia but had failed the NVQ level 3 exams needed to qualify to work in the same role in the UK.

"She qualified as an NVQ level 2 around 2009, failed her level 3 and went to Australia where she was employed as a veterinary nurse," Ms Fernando said.

"She had a relationship and a child but returned to the UK due to domestic issues and had to find work to support her daughter."

Out on the town with the Midnight

ORGANISERS of Saturday's Midnight Walk through Harlow are closing in on their £75,000 target after another successful St Clare Hospice fundraiser.

Once again the top deck of the Water Gardens car park in the town centre turned pink as 900 lined up for the start of the 5km and 10km walks.

Many were wearing fancy dress and as night fell the flashing bunny ears and angel walks lit up the crowd.

The good-natured crowd were kept entertained on a glorious summer's evening by the Heart radio roadshow while shortly before the start they were invited to take part in zumba warm-up.

And just before they were set on their way a hush descended on the area as a minute's silence was held for people to remember family members and friends who have they lost.

The first walkers were back within an hour while the last few crossed the finishing line in the early hours of Sunday.

St Clare communications manager Lois Prior said on Monday: "With donations and sales on the night we already have £17,500 and pledges to date are already taking us to a fantastic £62,500.

"This means it's only a short step to get us to our £75,000 target. If every one of our lovely walkers raised £65 we'd get there."

Chief executive Tanya Curry, who acted as a marshal along the route, said: "Every year I am overwhelmed by the fantastic support that hundreds of people show for St Clare Hospice by taking part in the Midnight Walk and this year is no exception.

Pupils show community love with big litter-pick

LONGWOOD PRIMARY The McDonalds restaurant at Staple Tye joined forces with the Paringdon Road school to teach pupils to love and respect their community.

Pupils, who were joined by Kier staff and their teachers, were taken on a litterpick at a field near to the fast-food franchise.

Armed with bin bags, gloves and litter pickers, they were tasked with collecting as much rubbish as they could.

Barbara Cox, of McDonalds, said: "We wanted to work with Longwood Primary School to teach the children to love where they live and take care of the area around them."

"We were clearing up a park area that is used a lot by children and it is important to keep it clean, which the Longwood pupils seemed to understand really well."

"It was a big success and the children seemed to really enjoy it - everyone had to try and collect as much rubbish as possible with their litter-pickers and everyone seemed to have fun and learn something from the day."

Mini-chefs given a lesson in cooking at town restaurant

LITTLE PARNDON PRIMARY: Pupils at the Hodings Road school dressed up in their chef whites and hats for a free cookery lesson at the Toby Carvery in Edinburgh Gate.

Youngsters were taught basic cooking skills with the restaurant chefs in a one-off lesson.

Restaurant manager Sharon McCann said: "We have been running a chef school this academic term and were visited by schools, including Little Parndon Primary, who are doing healthy eating focuses."

"The lessons are for children from Year 2 to Year 6 and we try to make it as fun as possible while they are still learning. This term it's been really popular with the schools and their kids."

"The children come in and we do a session about fresh fruit and vegetables and why they're important as well as some other foodie activities."

"We have cooking activities and they make their own ice-cream and have a talk from one of our chefs. The feedback from the lessons, which last a couple of hours usually, has been excellent and the students have all really enjoyed themselves."

Ms McCann added: "It's been going really well and in the new school year starting in September we'll be holding more chef school sessions."

Concentration camp survivor speaks to history students

MARK HALL History students were given the opportunity to meet and listen to the story of a Holocaust survivor who visited the academy at the end of last month.

Bob Obuchowski, who was born in Poland and the only survivor in his family, gave the students an account of his experiences during the Second World War and of the concentration camps he had been sent to - Auschwitz-Birkenau and Buchenwald and Remsdorf.

A morning session, which included a chance for students to ask questions to the Holocaust survivor about his experience, was given to year 8 and 9 pupils who have opted to study GCSE history in September.

Mr Obuchowski then re-told his stories in the afternoon to over 100 Mark Hall students.

The visit, which was also attended by Holocaust Education Trust tutor Catrina Kirkland, was so popular with the students that the school is hoping to invite Mr Obuchowski back during the autumn term.

School principal Corinne Franceschi told the Star: "This was a once-in-a-lifetime enrichment opportunity for our students."

"The level of engagement, questioning and debate from our students was outstanding, which was little wonder with such an inspirational person as Bob."

"We were honoured to have him with us for the day and the students all benefited enormously."

Chinese teachers on visit to learn about UK schools

BURNT MILL ACADEMY

Students and staff have welcomed two new teachers from China who are visiting the First Avenue academy to find out more about UK teaching practices.

Jayne Yu and Carrie Zhao are spending a month in the UK to gain experience of the British education system by observing various subject lessons.

Ms Yu, who graduated from university last year and is in her first year of teaching, said: "We are noticing so many differences between Burnt Mill and schools in China. Our school day starts at 7.30am and finishes at 5.30pm, but our lessons are only 45 minutes long and the children have a 10-minute break after each one."

"We also have morning and afternoon exercises and daily eye massages to take care of students' eyesight."

The teachers are also teaching pupils some basic Mandarin.

Ms Zhao added: "The children at Burnt Mill have been asking us lots of questions about our language and our country. They are so interested in our culture and how children live their lives in China."

 Ware Town Council – making Cinema affordable

IN just a couple of weeks all of the schools will have broken up for the long summer break. With weeks stretching ahead, it pays to do a little planning to make the most of the holidays.

Throughout Essex and Hertfordshire we are spoiled for choice when it comes to fun-filled days out and activities. From museums to wildlife parks, open air swimming pools to soft play centres, there is something for everyone and for all ages across the region.

Having fun doesn't need to cost money and you can encourage your child or teenager to swap some of their screen time for new adventures without too much input.

For example, East Herts District Council has provided £25,000 in grants to 20 different organisations within the district to help them deliver a fantastic range of fun activities for young people during the summer holidays. There are events, activities and playgroups catering for all age groups - from tots and toddlers to teenagers. For more information visit www.eastherts.gov.uk/summeractivities.

If the weather isn't good and you're stuck for ideas for indoor activities, why not set aside a 'messy space' where they can create a model-making project without having to clear it away every time the kitchen table is needed. This gives them time to build something really amazing.

Inspire teenagers to have a go at a full-on art project and help them research cheap arts and crafts materials such as paints and clay.

Encourage your child to create a special record of each day of the holiday – even the most mundane details build into something remarkable. It could be one photograph taken at the same time each day wherever they are, or a box of souvenirs – funny, amazing and interesting keepsakes.

Have fun staying active and set your child the challenge of playing 10 different sports before the holiday is over. As well as running, swimming and football, unearth a few more unusual sports to add to the 'to do' list.

Family-friendly pubs in our region offer a wealth of children's menus, play equipment, games and more. They are a great environment for you to relax and enjoy time with friends and family while the youngsters let off steam.

Before you start to plan your holidays, take a look at some of the experts on this page and pick the best our area has to offer to ensure your summer goes with a swing.

Potted history of PAH as the NHS turns 65

THE NHS blew out the candles on its 65th birthday cake last week so Nostalgia has decided to dip into the archives of Princess Alexandra Hospital - which will soon be celebrating a landmark anniversary of its own.

PAH, which was called Harlow Hospital when it first opened, was built in three stages from 1958 to 1966, taking patients from January 15, 1965.

The first ward to open was the 28-bed Harvey ward, named after a 17th century doctor, with others soon following.

Many patients were transferred from St Margaret's Hospitals to PAH to free up beds at the Epping hospital.

Sister Kathleen Burslem and Sister Brenda Jordan were in charge of the entire ward.

BIANCA CASTRO

bianca.castro@hertsessexnews.co.uk

One of the highlights of the hospital's first year was the official opening by Princess Alexandra on April 27, 1965.

Staff also celebrated the birth of the hospital's first Christmas Day baby, a boy called Daniel Lavery who made his appearance 30 minutes into December 25. He beat Michelle Jane Jackson, who was born two hours later, to the record books.

The Harlow Gazette reported on the births, recording the fact that Daniel was put in a cot decorated with pale blue and pink flowers with a white frill.

But the hospital's first year was not all celebrations and good news.

The opening of a whole block which included the only beds available for sick children in the town was delayed and the opening of several other wards in the hospital had to be postponed for a few weeks.

But after early teething problems the hospital continued to grow and develop, and now has 451 beds and provides services for a catchment population of almost half a million people.

Do you remember the opening of Princess Alexandra Hospital or were you one of the first patients? If so, share your story with Nostalgia by emailing star@hertsessexnews.co.uk, calling (01279) 400577 or sending a letter to 6 West Gate, Harlow, CM20 1JW.

New Town homes made affordable for renters

THE cost of buying or renting a home is seldom out of the news these days, with sky-high rents and first-time buyers unable to step onto the housing ladder often making the headlines.

But that was certainly not the case when the New Town was being built.

Roughly 2,000 houses were built within the first year and town planners estimated Harlow's building work would be completed in a decade - with 150 different types of dwellings.

When those early residents - most of whom rented their new homes - first moved to Harlow they were given several booklets explaining the developments as well as the types of housing available.

According to one such pamphlet - sent to Nostalgia by reader Mrs Poole - expensive homes could be rented for £5-£10 a month, while one and two-bedroom flats could be rented for as little as 18 shillings (90p) per week!

COMMUNITYNEWS

Bankers climb to top of 02 for charity

FOUR Harlow bankers reached new heights for charity as they climbed to the top of the 02 arena to raise more than £15,000.

Dan Farrow, Jason Brown, Tracey Dodd and Sue Bright - who all work at Barclays in Harlow - joined 55 other teammates to climbed the roof of the iconic building in aid of Macmillan Cancer Support.

The team battled high winds and a fear of heights to conquer the steep incline and reach the top.

Dan said: "This was an exhilarating, and at times scary, climb for us all but we were more than happy to swap our suits for jumpsuits and give it a go for Macmillan."

"We'd like to say thank you to everyone who made the day possible, particularly the people of Harlow who really got behind our fundraising efforts. Without their support we couldn't have completed this challenge."

Becky Ellison, corporate account manager at Macmillan, said: "By 2020 almost half of us will get cancer during our lifetime, which means there will be an even greater need for our vital services."

"With the continued support of events like this, we can make sure that Macmillan is there so that no one has to face cancer alone."

Sally Army opens new charity shop

THE Salvation Army in Harlow will be officially opening their new charity shop on Saturday.

The shop at The Stow has been trading for five weeks but the Army decided to hold an official launch with guests including Harlow MP Robert Halfon and town chaplain Rev Robert Findlay.

The Harlow Salvation Army Band will be playing from 10am and there will be refreshments.

Commanding officer Major Paul Holfield said: "This will be an important event in the history of the Salvation Army in Harlow."

"Originally the work we do started in 1957 in The Stow area and although the main centre is now at Tending Road we are thrilled to have a presence in The Stow."

Cinema fun day in aid of hospice

HARLOW Cineworld will be hosting a charity fun day on Saturday.

The aim is to raise money for the Haven House children's hospice and boost donations to Harlow Foodbank.

Face painters will be turning children into little monsters to celebrate the release of Monsters University and there will be a balloon race and other traditional fete games giving participants the chance of winning a prize.

Cineworld Harlow's operations manager Munaza Ashraf said: "It's going to be a really good day. We have lots going on and our main draw is a raffle with prizes like signed pictures of the Beckhams, a signed pair of football boots from Everton player Phil Jagielka and restaurant vouchers."

Chance to clean up in campaign

COMMUNITY groups and charities across the town have the opportunity to win thousands of pounds worth of cleaning products as part of a nationwide campaign.

Cleaning products firm Vileda is giving away 'Big Clean Bundles' to one group every week until August 25.

Winners will be picked at random each week and the person who nominated their local group will be rewarded with a Mini Clean Bundle.

Vileda is asking individuals to nominate organisations and charity groups they would like to see benefit from the Big Clean Bundles.

To nominate a group visit www.facebook.com/ViledaUK and click on the Big UK Clean-Up tab by August 25.

Lottery winners

THE winner of the £1,000 first prize in the St Clare Hospice lottery drawn on Friday, July 5 was ticketholder 434500, who lives in Loughton.

The £100 second prize was won by ticketholder 333828, who lives in Sawbridgeworth.

Launch kicks off the countdown to Harlow 5 Aid

ORGANISERS of one of the biggest charity events to take place in the town this year are counting down the weeks until kick-off following an official launch at the Water Gardens.

Harlow Police have organised a charity football tournament which will see Harlow Police FC take on teachers from schools in Harlow and a team of celebrities.

Harlow 5 Aid is raising money for Harlow Foodbank, the Variety Club of Great Britain, the Abbotswood Memorial Fund, the Cardiomyopathy Association and No Child Without.

The launch event, which

BIANCA CASTRO

bianca.castro@hertsexsexnews.co.uk

saw former X Factor contestant Micky Dumoulin entertain the crowds, started the countdown to the main event on Sunday, July 28.

Stuart Bert, who manages the Harlow Police team, said: "The launch was a fantastic success with hundreds of people descending on the Water Gardens. They were entertained by Micky Dumoulin and others who sang along as well as with a penalty shoot out and a lot more during the afternoon."

Co-organiser Sergeant Tony Smith said: "It's going to be great. There will be a lot going on during Harlow 5 Aid with something for everyone and some really exciting surprises too."

Harlow 5 Aid will be held at Harlow Town FC's stadium at Barrows Farm. As well as the football, there will be live music and fundraising activities including a closing ceremony and a schools football tournament.

Tickets cost £2.50 and double up as a programme and a raffle ticket. They can be bought from Passmores Academy and Harlow Town FC.

Charity starts appeal to send Skye to Disneyland

star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A CHILDREN'S charity has launched a special appeal to send a little girl with a rare genetic condition to Disneyland Paris.

Sixteen-month-old Skye Lewsey was diagnosed with Type 2 Mucopolidosis, an inherited metabolic disease that affects the body's ability to carry out the normal turnover of various materials within cells two months ago.

Her parents Ben and Vicki, who recently moved to Harlow from Sawbridgeworth, received the devastating news their daughter is not expected to live beyond her 7th birthday while they were holidaying in charity Kisses4Kids' caravan in Hopton.

The charity was founded by brain tumour patient Stacey Johnson to provide special treats for sick youngsters.

Vicki (28) said: "In a way it was a relief to finally know what was wrong but it was also heart-breaking to hear that your child is not going to have a long life."

"At least we were all together when we found out and we wanted to enjoy our holiday as much as possible."

The couple realised something might be wrong with their little girl after she started struggling to feed as a small baby.

Skye is now fed through a tube and the condition has also affected her growth and development, meaning she has not yet reached the normal milestones of other children her age, such as sitting up unsupported.

She is also prone to recurrent chest infections and heart problems.

Vicki said: "She is a very, very happy little girl and she is always smiling. People say they have never met such a happy child."

She added: "Because she's not expected to live past her 7th birthday, we have to make sure her small life is as happy as possible."

"We want to give her as many opportunities and experiences as we can and squeeze in everything you would want to do with your child into a shorter amount of time."

"When Kisses4Kids said they wanted to send Skye to Disneyland I felt like crying. It's not something we'd be able to do ourselves and we are so grateful. Everyone has been so supportive and generous. We've been overwhelmed."

Stacey said: "Little Skye captured my heart and I would like to make her as happy as humanly possible. She is just so adorable; when she smiles you just fall in love."

Labour supporters set out their stall to protect health services

HARLOW'S Labour councillors and parliamentary candidate Suzy Stride, celebrated the 65th anniversary of the NHS by setting up a stall in the town centre to discuss the future of health services.

A birthday cake took pride of place on the stall and shoppers were invited to sign a card which will be delivered to the local health trust.

The group also took the opportunity to urge residents to join the Labour Party's campaign calling on the Prime Minister to keep his promise to protect the NHS.

Ms Stride said: "I've spoken to both patients and health workers in Harlow and they've all told me they are worried about the future of the NHS. I know firsthand how amazing it is but it needs protecting so that future generations are able to benefit from our incredible health service."

"That is why I'm asking people in Harlow to join our campaign and send a message to David Cameron that our health service doesn't deserve his broken promises."

She added: "Labour created the NHS in 1948 and it is one of our proudest achievements. Its 65th birthday is an opportunity to celebrate, but if we're going to commemorate further milestones then we need to make sure our NHS is strengthened and protected for the future."

Whales 'confused' by man-made sounds

MAN-MADE sounds underwater could be having a harmful impact on whales, according to new research.

Scientists made the discovery when they were carrying out research into how blue and beaked whales reacted to naval sonar - a technique used by navy vessels which uses soundwaves to communicate and navigate in water.

They launched the project in response to fears the man-made sounds were confusing the giant mammals, sometimes causing them to become stranded on beaches.

The team found that both species of whale immediately stopped hunting for food when they heard the man-made sounds, swimming away from the affected area completely.

This is dangerous for the creatures, as it could mean they will struggle to get enough food, and conservationists are now urging the navy not to use sonar in whale hotspots.

The British Navy said it already limits its use of sonar around whales, and promised to take the research findings into account in the future.

INDEPENDENT Retailer Month is a worldwide 'Shop Local' campaign which runs annually throughout July to highlight the importance of smaller, local independent retailers in the communities they serve, the local economy they contribute to and the retail sector as a whole.

Not only does buying locally support local traders, their suppliers and the people they depend on to run their businesses, it also boosts the local economy and enables local businesses to prosper and grow.

Research from the Centre for Local Economic Strategies for Federation of Small Businesses showed the value of £1 spent locally. The results were compelling and sufficient to convince most people that when they shop locally they are genuinely having a positive impact on their community!

They discovered that for every £1 spent locally, around 50p - 70p of that money recirculates back into the local economy. For the same £1 spent out of town or online, only 5p trickles back to the local community.

Independent Retailer Month
CELEBRATE INDEPENDENT RETAIL
JULY 2013

With that level of impact it makes sense to make more effort to spend more with local independent businesses.

By buying from local independent shops we are playing our part in keeping our high street, town or village centre open for business.

And the benefits of shopping locally don't stop there. Shopping with independent stores can usually mean a greater number of unique products, a better and more personal service.

and an all-round more positive experience. You can't get a warm welcome and cheery smile from the internet!

From tradesmen to grocers, locally owned businesses build strong communities that just can't be matched by the impersonal big name chain stores and nationwide companies.

If we want to create vibrant town centres, forge economic and social relationships and contribute to local causes, then shop local.

It is truly a case of 'use it or lose it', so vote with your feet and help keep our local stores in business.

Now is the time to make the most of Harlow's wealth of free facilities

HARLOW really does have something for everyone.

Whether you like walking, cycling, leisure activities, being entertained, exploring history, the arts or discovering new adventures, Harlow has it all on offer this summer - and not everything is going to hit the pockets of hard-pressed families.

The Town Park is a great place to unwind and relax with the family and it is one of the biggest urban parks in the country.

Situated within the park is Pets' Corner, a state-of-the-art skate park and an adventure playground. All of these are open seven days a week and free to use.

It is great to see the Town Park Bandstand being used to entertain crowds just like in the old days and more events are planned in the park this summer.

These include a children's fun fair from July 26 to August 11, an outdoor picnic cinema on July 27 and August 17, a free national playday on August 7, a free country & western festival and youth fun day on August 11 and the free two-day Linkfest on Saturday, August 24 and Sunday, August 25.

Next Saturday (July 20) the town's five free-to-use paddling pools around the town and the splash park at Potter Street will open for the six-week summer holidays.

COUNCIL MATTERS

By Harlow Council leader Mark Wilkinson

The Museum of Harlow and Walled Gardens are open and will be holding special events during the holidays. And if you are into discovering wildlife, Parndon Wood Nature Reserve will be open all week during August. Once again admission to these facilities is free.

The town also has one of the largest gallery spaces in Essex with the Gibberd Gallery within the Civic Centre. This is open weekdays between 9am and 4.45pm and entry is free.

The gallery is currently hosting an exhibition where visitors can explore three military war bunkers similar to those used in the Second World War.

This is just a selection of things to see and do. Let us not forget the town's cycle tracks, open spaces, River Stort, playgrounds, outdoor sculpture trail, galleries at Parndon Mill and Gatehouse Arts, shows at the Playhouse and Victoria Hall theatres, Harlow Leisurezone, Science Alive and the town's hidden treasures like the Roman temple site in River Way and the Gibberd Garden - all these offer further adventures this summer holiday.

The Playhouse, Pets' Corner, the skate park, the paddling pools, the maintenance of the Town Park, public open spaces and playgrounds are all funded by your council tax. Many other facilities, events and social activities are provided by volunteers working for clubs and community groups.

This hard work makes Harlow a great place to enjoy the summer and a place we can all be proud of.

Whatever you do, I hope you take the opportunity to support local facilities and events.

Reading challenge is truly spook-tacular!

ESSEX Libraries will be unlocking the door to the Creepy House as part of its summer reading challenge for children.

During the school holidays youngsters are invited to pick up a Creepy House poster and choose some stories to start them on their spine-tingling journey around this house of unlikely inhabitants.

In order to unlock its secret, children need to read six books and collect the stickers along the way. Those who complete the challenge will receive a medal and everyone who signs up will get a certificate.

Children of any age can take part, regardless of reading ability. Creepy House will be running in all Essex libraries from Saturday, July 20 to Monday, September 2.

Over 10s can also take part in a separate challenge, Mystery Street.

For more information, visit www.essex.gov.uk/libraries.

Aries Mar 21-Apr 20

Uranus begins a retrograde in your sign, encouraging you to turn your attention inside, and tap into those latent strands of genius you are yet to embrace, or to get the real meaning of your true hopes. Also this week, openings of the heart are fuelled by a very positive Grand Trine which brings energy and vitality to family life as well as deep emotional issues. Call for more news...

Taurus Apr 21-May 21

You may find it hard to put things into words, especially as this week's influences involve a powerful configuration that includes Jupiter, Neptune and Saturn. If a problem has continually evaded you, the meaning may become clearer, and perhaps be inspired by a piece of music or a photograph. A heart-to-heart with someone may prove highly reassuring. Call for more advice...

Gemini May 22-Jun 21

This week may be important to you, as Mercury continues to rewind in your financial zone. While it is usual to experience delays and some frustration at this time, it's also possible to come up with original ideas that may help create a new stream of income. Fortunately, by the end of the week a new perspective on an ongoing financial situation may bring peace of mind. Call for more news...

Cancer Jun 22-Jul 23

The Moon's first-quarter in Libra suggests that progress may be at a critical stage. Be clear about what you want to achieve, and the path to success may be swifter and clearer. Meanwhile, writing or journaling, or even being creative with paints or crafts, may help you to define and understand your feelings. Something may need to be heard - so do allow it to speak. Call for more advice...

Leo Jul 24-Aug 23

A more introverted focus may encourage you to look within to gain an understanding of what makes you tick. However, this week's upbeat Grand Trine may be rather like a high tide in which all kinds of ideas, spiritual intuitions and fresh perspectives can be gathered like driftwood and used to enhance areas of your life in practical and beautiful ways. Call for more advice...

Virgo Aug 24-Sept 23

Misunderstandings or confusions could be a problem as Mercury continues to track back. Watch out for mixed messages, but also be aware that reunions with folk from the past are another possibility. A special meeting could have romantic or business overtones. Also, a collaboration may become a creative partnership, while also channeling spiritual qualities. Call me for more news...

Libra Sept 24-Oct 23

The Moon's first-quarter brings an opportunity to check your progress on a current goal. Ask yourself what elements need to be in balance in order to achieve success. Meanwhile, you seem to be revealing imaginative possibilities. Uranus begins a five month retrograde, which may bring fresh insights to a relationship issue. Call for more...

Scorpio Oct 24-Nov 23

The need to explore may be hampered by a desire to remain in control. This week's very upbeat Grand Trine involves planets in Water zodiac signs, and may catapult you into fresh situations which encourage you to make use of your talents and abilities. Move beyond caution to discover new worlds of creativity. A childhood memory may contain the seed of an idea. Call for more...

Sagittarius Nov 23-Dec 21

As Uranus begins its annual trackback, you may go back in time regarding a romance that left you with happy memories. Perhaps you'll want to pause and consider how you can get that experience back - or something like it. Waters run deep as Jupiter trines both Saturn and Neptune. You may desire a more soulful and authentic connection with yourself and others. Call for more advice...

Capricorn Dec 22-Jan 20

Connections and relationships gain importance, giving you a chance to join the dots. If your social life needs a boost, then this week's super blend of energies may bring more people your way who seem keen to spend time or co-operate with you. You may experience greater success when you team up with others and take them into your heart. Call for your in-depth forecast...

Aquarius Jan 21-Feb 19

Your modern co-ruler is the sometimes radical vibes of Uranus. This week in your sector of everyday communications. This encourages you to show more pluck around high tide in which all kinds of ideas, spiritual intuitions and fresh perspectives can be gathered like driftwood and used to enhance areas of your life in practical and beautiful ways. Call for more advice...

Make a Seen at Gatehouse Arts' new exhibition

A DAZZLING new exhibition of mixed media artwork is now on display at town centre gallery Gatehouse Arts.

Launched last month, Seen // is the latest collaboration between the Harlow gallery and Chelmsford-based Hive Artists Studios.

Now in its second year, the show features one-off works in a diverse range of artistic disciplines including paintings, illustrations, jewellery, prints and even shoes.

Amanda Westbury, of Gatehouse Arts, said: "Although there is no set theme for the show, each piece seems to fit quite well with each other."

"It's always nice to collaborate with other studios and it's a great show. The exhibition was on during our open studio days last weekend so that got even even more people into the gallery and enjoying the art."

All of the artwork featured in the show is for sale, giving art lovers the opportunity to purchase a truly one-off piece.

Resident artist Claire Jones added: "I think it is brilliant to be able to give other artists the opportunity to exhibit."

"There's some great artwork and lots of different pieces and we're very happy to be collaborating with other studios."

>>The exhibition runs until July 27 at the West Gate Gallery, and admission is free.

Summer sizzler: Linkfest is a real scorcher

CHRIS MOSS

THOUSANDS of revellers basked in glorious sunshine as they enjoyed live music and entertainment in Harlow Town Park on Sunday.

Almost 5,000 people braved the 30-degree heat to rock out to the sounds of some of the UK's top tribute acts and covers bands at the first instalment of this summer's Linkfest In The Park double-header.

Kicking off with local favourites Me & Him, the event featured storming live sets from the likes of The Reason, Mary Cameron, Lee Van, Repertoire Dogs and headliners Coolplay.

For organiser Jamie Pring, it was the perfect way to prepare for next month's main event - the Linkfest Bank Holiday Weekender on August 24 and 25.

"We couldn't have hoped for better weather - it was scorching hot all day," he told the Star.

"We're confident we had around 5,000 people over the course of the day and the feedback we've had so far has been amazing.

"The bands were fantastic and the crowds were great. I'd like to thank everyone for making the day a huge success."

He added: "It's just great to put a smile on people's faces, and hopefully we'll have even more people down here next month for the main event. It's going to be a party to remember!"

Glorious finale for Harlow Chorus

A FEAST of glorious music by Mozart, Schubert and Haydn will round off Harlow Chorus's current season next Saturday (July 13).

Taking place in the breathtaking surroundings of St Peter ad Vincula in Coggeshall, the concert will first and foremost be a rousing celebration of Mozart's greatest works, from the first symphony he wrote as an eight-year-old child prodigy to his powerful Requiem, unfinished when he died in 1791 at the age of just 35.

The sketches he left behind for its completion formed the basis for Franz Süssmayer's 1792 reworking, but more have come to light since and this performance is of Duncan Druce's revised edition of the Süssmayer original - a more substantial work first performed at the Proms in 1991 to mark Mozart's bicentenary.

Schubert's Mass in G and Haydn's Te Deum will offer a light and sparkling accompaniment to the evening's entertainment.

The choir, which includes members from Harlow, Sawbridgeworth and Bishop's Stortford, will be supported by four accomplished soloists from the Royal Academy of Music and the Brandenburg Sinfonia - an orchestra renowned for the special quality of its sound and poised vivacity in performance which performs regularly in major venues across the country and in London.

The sinfonia's artistic director, Robert Porter, was made a Freeman of the City of London in 1991 for his services to music.

>>The concert starts at 7.30pm at St Peter ad Vincula in Coggeshall, Essex. Tickets cost £16 (£13 concessions / £7 restricted view) and can be purchased online at www.harlowchorus.ticketsource.co.uk or via email at tickets@harlowchorus.org.uk. GARDENING & PUZZLES

Keeping a count of our butterflies

SHE'S banged the drum for the Gurkhas, she's the ambassador for an initiative to combat climate change and waste – but most recently, actress and keen gardener Joanna Lumley has turned her attentions to the plight of the humble butterfly.

Backing this year's Big Butterfly Count – the world's biggest survey of butterflies organised by Butterfly Conservation and Marks & Spencer – Lumley explains: "I've been fascinated by butterflies ever since being brought up in the Far East where they were, like many things there, huge, bright and extraordinary.

"The great heartbreak is to see how few there are today. Looking out on my garden now, and walking up and down it as I do every day, I'm not seeing any.

"This huge, scientific survey is actually counting the effect of mankind upon the natural world."

The public is being asked to take 15 minutes to participate in the count, which runs from July 20 to August 11 (prime time for butterfly activity), to help identify trends in species that will aid us in planning how to protect butterflies from extinction, as well as understanding the effect of climate change on wildlife.

Butterflies react very quickly to change in their environment which makes them excellent biodiversity indicators. Butterfly declines are an early warning for other wildlife losses. Almost three-quarters of UK butterfly species have decreased in population during the last decade, while the number of UK's larger moths has crashed in the past 40 years, according to a recent reports by a group of leading conservation organisations.

"The predictions are that numbers will be down again this year," says Butterfly Conservation surveys manager Richard Fox.

"As butterflies had such a bad year last year because of the wet weather, it's likely that fewer offspring will emerge.

"The Small Tortoiseshell has had eight bad years in a row and has declined by 74% since 1976. The weather last year would have been a major contributing factor but there are other things going on. They need suitable habitats to thrive."

This year's cold spring should not have affected numbers because cold snaps tend to happen when butterflies are dormant, so the insects simply come out later, he explains.

Lumley's own London garden, with its wild area of meadow planting at the end, should be a haven for butterflies, but she has seen few this year.

"That's quite a good area for butterflies, but I've maybe seen three this year," she explains.

She's nailed a moth overwintering box, featuring a nectar column, onto her pear tree, but so far it remains empty.

"Like the bees, suddenly there's been something catastrophic happening. Something we are doing is wrong. I suspect we have to blame it on our methods of farming, but I think it's also down to our way of living in our urban environment,

ON THE WEB Gardening tips and news

www.harlowstar.co.uk

butterflies love species that aren't necessarily the smartest flowers. In London, I have Michaelmas daisies, buddleia, lavender, honesty, dandelions. Butterflies like all of these."

She'll be doing two butterfly counts – one at her London garden, the other in her Scottish retreat – and hopes that she'll have more luck during the three-week count than she has so far.

The Butterfly Conservation offers the following tips to attract butterflies to your garden:

- Choose sunny, sheltered spots when planting nectar plants, because butterflies like warmth.
- Select different plants to attract a wider variety of species.
- Prolong flowering by deadheading regularly, mulching with organic compost and watering well.
- Don't use insecticides and pesticides which kill butterflies and many pollinating insects.
- Grow plants which will attract butterflies including buddleia, Verbena bonariensis, lavender, perennial wallflower, marjoram, phlox, nasturtium, escallonia, cone flower, aster, sweet rocket, lobelia and herbs including chives, thyme and mint.

MONSTERS UNIVERSITY certificate U, 1h50m

UNDER the guidance of chief creative officer John Lasseter, Pixar Studios has reigned supreme for 18 years as masters of the computer-animated fable.

Toy Story, Finding Nemo and The Incredibles affirmed animation as a serious art form capable of exceeding live action blockbusters at the box office, while Up and Toy Story 3 were both nominated as Best Picture and Best Animated Feature at successive Academy Awards.

In recent years Pixar has lacked some of its trademark innovation, returning to past glories for inspiration, including a lacklustre sequel to Cars and the forthcoming Finding Dory.

Monsters University continues that trend, conjuring a back story to the enduring friendship of Mike Wazowski (voiced by Billy Crystal) and James P Sullivan - aka Sulley (voiced by John Goodman) - from Monsters, Inc.

In this colourful and fast-paced prequel, director Dan Scanlon harks back to Mike's childhood when the six-year-old ignites his desire to become a scarer.

Many years later, Mike excitedly heads off to university to realise his dream. There he befriends shy roommate Randall 'Randy' Boggs (Steve Buscemi) and impresses his teachers by regurgitating facts from textbooks.

However, classmate Sulley gets all of the attention and is courted by the Roar Omega Roar fraternity and its dashing president, Johnny Worthington (Nathan Fillion). Eventually, Mike snaps and declares war on Sulley. The rivals' fates rest on an end-of-term exam, which must be passed or Dean Hardscrabble (Helen Mirren) will expel them from the course.

Unperturbed, he joins forces with the misfits from Oozma Kappa fraternity - tentacled mature student Don (Joel Murray), lovably naive Scott Squibbles (Peter Sohn), conjoined siblings Terri (Sean Hayes) and Terry (Dave Foley) and purple-striped extrovert Art (Charlie Day) - to prove that every underdog has his day.

Monsters University boasts the same appealing cocktail of comedy, action and touching friendship as its predecessor, including some lively supporting performances. Dialogue zings and Crystal and Goodman ease back into their roles as if they were putting on a favourite pair of old slippers.

Like previous Pixar releases, the main feature is preceded by a short. In this instance, it's The Blue Umbrella, a delightful six-minute love story which recounts the first flushes of romance between blue and red umbrellas on a rain-lashed city street.

PACIFIC RIM certificate 12A, 2h11m

IF the hulking machines from Transformers jumped celluloid to battle the monstrous title character from Godzilla, the resulting carnage would closely resemble the computer-generated sound and fury of Pacific Rim.

Guillermo del Toro's sci-fi action adventure takes a tantalisingly simple premise - giant robots versus gargantuan aliens - and expands that idea into a soulless exercise in technological might over emotional matter.

It's difficult to believe the writer-director of Pan's Labyrinth and the quirky Hellboy saga has surrendered all of the humanity which underpinned his previous work to oversee what is essentially 131 exhausting minutes of wanton destruction.

A protracted prologue establishes the emergence of alien creatures known as Kaiju from a temporal rift on the sea floor. Humanity responds by creating the Jaegers - 25-storey tall robots operated by two pilots whose minds are melded by a neural link known as The Drift.

Raleigh Becket (Charlie Hunnam) and older brother Yancy (Diego Klattenhoff) are ace pilots of the American robot Gipsy Danger, but their run of victories comes to a tragic end at the claws of one particularly vicious Kaiju.

Five years later Stacker Pentecost (Idris Elba), commander of the Pan Pacific Defense Corp, approaches Raleigh to step back inside the Gipsy Danger with a new co-pilot. Together they forge an intense bond that might swing the balance of power back in favour of mankind.

The script is a wasteland of two-dimensional characters and hoary clichés, replete with the obligatory stirring call-to-arms against extra-terrestrial invaders. Grown men of every conceivable nationality pump their fists in the air, whoop and holler, energised by the titanic battle that lies ahead.

Audiences will simply be glad that there is just the final shutdown to endure before the end credits roll.

Pacific Rim concentrates on the digital effects and thunderous action sequences at the expense of the characters and their relationships.

The hokey science behind del Toro's vision is a muddle and occasional forays into comedy - courtesy of two madcap scientists (Charlie Day, Burn Gorman) and a black marketer called Hannibal Chau (Ron Perlman) - sit awkwardly next to the deadly serious business of monster-mashing.

NOW YOU SEE ME Close-up conjurer Daniel Atlas (Jesse Eisenberg), escapologist Henley Reeves (Isla Fisher), mentalist Merrit McKinney (Woody Harrelson) and street magician Jack Wilder (Dave Franco) are all successful in their own fields, dazzling small audiences with their showmanship. One day each performer receives a Tarot card bearing a date, a time and a location. As instructed, they arrive at an apartment in New York where a dazzling light show reveals an illusion that will stun the world. One year later, Daniel, Henley, Merrit and Jack are reborn as The Four Horsemen. In front of a live audience, they choose an audience member at random and magically transport their stooge to a bank in Paris to raid millions from the vault. With their sponsor Arthur Tressler (Michael Caine) and renowned sceptic Thaddeus Bradley (Morgan Freeman) watching in the aisles, Daniel, Henley, Merrit and Jack pull off this seemingly impossible feat. But within hours, they are under arrest and facing interrogation by FBI Agent Dylan Rhodes (Mark Ruffalo), who doesn't want the case, nor the added distraction of Interpol agent Alma Dray (Melanie Laurent). The cops quickly learn that they underestimate the magicians at their peril.

Tracey Waples Property Editor

RECENT talk in the property industry has changed from whether the market has turned a corner to what could be the implications of its new-found momentum.

There have been headlines suggesting the 'Help to Buy' scheme could create a new housing bubble but as the Government's attempt to help those with small deposits only applies to new build property at the moment, those headlines are probably a little premature.

Confidence in the housing market and the economy seems to be growing and many respected commentators are speaking optimistically about the market's prospects.

The Nationwide has said: "Widespread expectations are that the economy will continue to recover gradually in the quarters ahead, that interest rates will remain low and the on-going impact of policy measures aimed at supporting the availability and lowering the cost of credit all provide reasons for optimism that activity will continue to gain momentum in the quarters ahead."

This is backed up by the Royal Institution of Chartered Surveyors which claims that conditions are at their most buoyant since mid-2010. Add to this a recent Housing Federation survey which says the average price paid by a first-time buyer in 2012 was £173,185 and this is expected to rise by 43 per cent over the next five years to £245,165.

Access to mortgages continues to improve for first-time buyers and any rise in activity is likely to increase confidence in the rest of the housing market.

Lenders are now much stricter about the amount of money they are prepared to lend against income and also require intensive proof of earnings documentation.

The result for many is that house prices, rather than deposits, could become the new issue over home ownership.

For rent at £950 pcm

AT St Nicholas Green in the popular Newhall area of Harlow, this maisonette is now available for rent.

It has two double bedrooms and is in immaculate condition, with its own carport parking and an attractive balcony off the main

Delightful detached for £525,000

The four-bedroom family home includes a high specification kitchen and bathroom and there are many notable features including the inglenook fireplace in the lounge and en-suite bathroom to the main bedroom.

There is potential to alter the double garage and side of the plot to build an annexe.

Deciding on Price (Part Two)

We know that house prices have rocketed over decades, and then declined slightly and they are now in the region of 9.5% below their 2007 peak. However, establishing an accurate asking price that will optimise your chances of selling at the highest likely price within a reasonable timescale is both an art and a science.

Estate agents valuations can vary tremendously. Some agents attempt to win your instruction by flattering you with a high but unrealistic suggested asking price beware! Some, due to inexperience or unfamiliarity with current buyer trends, haven't got a clue and get it plain wrong which can cost you time and money. Some are more responsible and advise the right price from day one.

We take the pricing issue very seriously, and much consideration is involved before we recommend an asking price.

As a rule of thumb, ask two or three reputable agents to suggest the optimum market value and base your pricing decision on these valuations - if not your choice of agent. It is important that you quote the right price from day one and achieve or exceed it, rather than quoting a high price and then encouraging low offers. The wrong price attracts the wrong buyers (particularly in this market), and fewer suitable buyers view the property thereby minimising the chance of receiving an offer in any event.

Ultimately the critical part is to select your estate agent on the strength of their service, reputation and marketing plan - not simply on their valuation or commission rate. After all you're going to be working in partnership with them so choose the agent you prefer!

If you are considering selling your property and would like a carefully considered and qualified view of the likely sale price of your property in the current market, then please feel free to contact us on 01279 444988.

Getting the Most out of Your Property Investment

Superficially, lettings could be seen as relatively straightforward, and some firms do indeed regard themselves as a simple broking operation, with tenants being introduced to available properties.

However, if your investment is going to provide you with peace of mind as well as a great return, then you will want to know that the property is being managed by people who really care.

Our response to the ever-growing rentals market has been to take a good look at the opportunity to deliver a service to landlords which not only meets expectations, but goes way beyond. Indeed, many of our clients have commented that they have found our lettings service to be a “breath of fresh air” when compared to their previous experience!

For example, it is critical that all prospective tenants are thoroughly vetted and credit checked in order to ensure that they will not only pay the rent on time, but that they will also look after your property as if it were their own, if not better! Indeed, we are passionate about this issue, and during every tenancy we regularly visit the property personally. This not only means that we can keep an eye on how the tenants are treating it, but also allows us to advise you if any preventative maintenance should be undertaken.

We find this on-going relationship with your tenants is also an excellent way of showing them that you care, resulting in them treating you and your investment with the utmost respect, resulting in an optimum return and a peaceful night's sleep! After all, that's what a good letting agent is all about!

So when choosing a letting agent, why not choose the one who regards every property as if they owned it themselves! Why not call us for an initial chat on 01279 444988

BY MATT JOY

THERE'S only one problem with success and that's how to follow it.

It's a tricky one alright; the first generation Citroen Picasso (based on the Xsara) was a solid-gold hit and sold by the shipload thanks to keen pricing and tons of space. The next generation did well, too, although it had tougher rivals to contend with.

Now there's a brand-new C4 Picasso MPV and once again it faces a difficult task. The competition is hotter than ever, and buyers are more demanding than ever too.

Just having space isn't enough; comfort, attractive design and fuel efficiency appear on most shopping lists so this is a tough crowd to please.

This new C4 Picasso is a much more sophisticated device, however. The key advance is that the C4 Picasso is the first of a series of Citroens to use the new EMP2 platform.

Because of its modular design, it can be lengthened to create a whole range of vehicles and it's also been created to save weight; the new C4 Picasso is 140kg lighter than the previous model. Despite this, Citroen claims it is stronger and stiffer

Fact File

Citroen C4 Picasso

PRICE

£20,000
(estimated)

ENGINE: 1.6-litre diesel unit producing 115bhp
TRANSMISSION: 6-speed manual driving front wheels
PERFORMANCE: Maximum speed 117mph, 0-62mph 11.8s
ECONOMY: 70.6mpg (combined)
CO<sub>2</sub> RATING: 105g/km than the outgoing car, which is good news for protection in the event of a crash.

Important stuff then, but it's the outside that will get your attention first. Much more than a box on wheels, the C4 Picasso has a large glass area and slim LED headlights that help to create a more distinctive look.

It's clearly related to the previous generation model but with more character; it has certainly benefitted from the impressively-stylish DS models elsewhere in the range. You can have one parked on your drive and your neighbours won't automatically assume that you've given up on life because you now have children.

This is an MPV though, so it's the inside that matters most. The first thing you notice is the amount of light coming into the cabin, particularly with the glass roof. The windscreen extends almost over the heads of the front seat occupants.

There are lots of clever features, such as an airline-style footrest for the front passenger and 40 litres of under-floor storage, while the rear seats are divided into three and fold easily to give lots of versatility.

Citroen has also made a big noise about the layout of the dashboard, which does away with conventional instruments and instead gives you two large screens. The upper one can display all sorts of information as well as images uploaded from a USB stick (if you wish) and is configurable in numerous ways, while the lower one is a touchscreen and controls many of the vehicle functions.

It all looks very smart and generally works very well, although sometimes you are required to push a button on the steering wheel to confirm a choice which can be confusing at first.

Under the bonnet there's a choice of two petrol and three diesel engines, but it's the 1.6-litre diesels that grab the headlines. The 115 e-HDi unit offers a useful blend of performance and economy; it's as quick as you would need unless you're in a big hurry but the prospect of 70.6mpg and 105g/km of CO<sub>2</sub> is impressive for a car that's designed to be more than just a green machine.

But it is the C4 Picasso's excellent ride that really impresses. It soaks up bumps very well, without becoming too soft in the corners; basically, it behaves like a much bigger car.

Press on and it hangs in gamely but that's not what it's best at - instead sail along on the torque of the engine, enjoy the panoramic view outside and let the suspension deal with any road imperfections. It's good from behind the wheel and your passengers will thank you for it too.

Compared to its key rivals the C4 Picasso certainly looks smart, is well-equipped and impressively versatile.

It may be a fraction behind in absolute dynamics but it more than makes up for this with the good ride, arguably more important in a car like this.

Looks like Citroen has another success story on its hands.

End of the road for your vehicle?

Responsible drivers scrap their vehicles at an Authorised Treatment Facility (ATF).

Because only an ATF can legally scrap a vehicle. That means any pollutants will be made safe before it's recycled in an environmentally friendly way.

What's more, for certain types of vehicle you'll get a DVLA approved Certificate of Destruction (CoD). A CoD proves that the ATF has told DVLA your vehicle has been scrapped and so is no longer your responsibility. www.direct.gov.uk/motoring

Canaan 4th at England Champs

ATHLETICS

FOURTEEN-year-old Mark Hall School student Canaan Solomon came away with fourth in the final of the 1,500metres at the All-England Schools Championships.

Representing Essex, he clocked a time of 4 minutes and 10.8 seconds in a close race on Saturday.

The winner, Ben Dijkstra from Leicester, triumphed in 4:09.3.

In the heat on Friday, Canaan qualified comfortably in 4:13.75, for second.

The final was a tactical affair with Rob Huckle (Cambs) making a break into the last lap.

Canaan gave his all in a scrap for second spot, losing out by three-tenths of a second on silver with Huckle gaining the bronze by the thickness of a vest.

"Although Canaan was disappointed with this result he must take credit for achieving what he did in his first track and field champs at English Schools," said Essex coach John Stow. "He admitted he felt the pressure of being the fastest in the field. I am sure this will be the springboard for greater things at these championships in the future for Canaan."

"Most Olympians, including Andrew Osagie back in 2004, have started out in the Essex Championships which have been their starting platform."

Canaan has also been selected to attend a summer camp run by former Great Britain runner Craig Winrow, coach to Osagie, which is being run at the top facilities at St Mary's in Twickenham where Osagie trains.

This will be held in the last week in August. This follows his win at last year's U-13 London Mini Marathon for boys.

HARLOW Greyhound Stadium selections (Friday July 12): 7.30 The Jester; 7.49 Bulletproof 8.08; Soviet Blue Sky (NB); 8.27 Poormans Blue; 8.46 Yeneed Spirit; 9.04 Barra Goldmine; 9.22 Lexies Blue; 9.40 Sahara Gem; 9.58 Global Time (NAP); 10.15 Freedom Cait.

Tough home draws for Hawks in FA Cup and Trophy

HARLOW Town have been given a home draw in the preliminary round of the FA Cup on Saturday August 31.

The Hawks host the winners of the extra preliminary round tie between Walsham-le-Willows or Tower Hamlets.

If Harlow get through, they then host Lowestoft Town in the first round on Saturday September 14.

The last significant run Harlow had in this famous competition was when Ryan Kirby's side reached the first round proper in the 2008-09 season.

The winners in the preliminary round and the first round stages respectively get £1,925 and £3,000. Meanwhile, Harlow have been drawn to face Surrey side Leatherhead away in the preliminary round of the FA Trophy on Saturday October 5.

The winners will receive £2,500 and will also play Lewes away in the first round qualifying on October 19.

● THE Hawks visit Tooting & Mitcham in their first pre-season friendly this Saturday.

School's treat before the Ashes

A TRIP to watch England take on Essex in their final warm-up match before today's Ashes started, proved a treat for two young cricket teams from Harlow who have enjoyed huge success on the county stage.

The girls team from Church Langley School won the Plate competition at the Asda Kwik Cricket Essex county tournament at Billericay CC. The boys were third in their competition.

Meanwhile, the school was offered 20 tickets to watch the England match at Chelmsford last Wednesday, which was just reward for their crickering endeavours.

Ben Yeats and Hassan Ali were selected to take part in a guard of honour as the players entered the field.

The children got to take part in some fun coaching by Essex CCC staff during the lunch interval on the outfield and got lots of autographs.

"It was a great day all round," said Church Langley deputy headteacher David Stacey.

Meanwhile in their

tournament, the girls lost to Bourne Green (eventual runners-up) and Lee Chapel in the opening rounds but beat Bournemouth Park, Chingford C of E and then Tolleshunt D'Arcy in the Plate final.

Tolleshunt scored 229-5 but Langley chased down the target with 237-2.

The girls lost their opening two matches in tight games.

Mr Stacey added: "We bowled and fielded well but didn't get enough runs. We played really well against three other schools, eventually winning the Plate trophy. The batting was better and Ashlyn Weekes hit a six and took three catches and some strong bowling from Jessica Rayif-

Pearson, Jasmine Devine and Hallie-Mae Harding."

The boys qualified for the Essex finals by winning the best team trophy at Harlow Cricket Club.

They took third after a sudden death bowl-off.

Ben Yeats finally hit the stumps after all eight players from both teams had missed!

High Fives leapfrog Harlow after draw

Fives & Heronians.....303-9 Harlow.....169-8

Match drawn
Shepherd Neame Essex League, division one

IF there was any complacency about Harlow not being relegated this would have been shaken by their home draw against fellow strugglers Fives & Heronians.

Fives had the better of Saturday's clash and got enough points to climb off bottom spot which is now occupied by Harlow.

The hosts lost the toss and after quick bowler Andrew McGarry bowled Gary Edwards for 7, Fives recovered well in the warm, batsmen friendly conditions. Opener Terry Ballard made 93 and was well supported by number three Peter Kilpatrick who struck 54.

There was a slight middle order blip but good innings' from Rahul Patel (60 not out) and Jake Poulter (53 not out) ensured Fives posted a formidable score of 303-9.

Luke Monger (3-47) and Rizwan Sadiq (3-86) were the chief wicket takers.

Harlow struggled in reply and none of their top six reached 25.

Former Bishop's Stortford

quick bowler Jamie Porter caused trouble taking three wickets from the top four including that of key batsman Ahmed Khawaja, who was caught by Greg Summers for 24.

Harlow looked like losing before stern resistance from Luke Monger (51) and McGarry (30 not out) ensured that Harlow scrambled a draw.

The hosts, who received 10 fewer overs, were eight wickets down and more than 130 runs short of the Fives total at the end.

Town bounce back with win over Green

THE nerve of the Harlow Town batsmen held as they recorded a good six wicket home win over Woodford Green in division three of the Shepherd Neame Essex League.

Woodford batted first on Saturday and Saad Ijaz (25) and Masood Qazi (36) were the main contributors as they reached 87-4.

Mathew Field (27) and David Hawkes (35) also chipped in with useful efforts before Woodford were bowled out for 204.

The experienced Dan Calver wrapped up the visitors' tail, ending with 4-28.

Shaun Alderson also bowled well claiming 3-64.

Opening batsmen Shiraz Ali and Pat Yates got off to a brilliant start for the home side.

The pair put on an opening stand of 95 before Yates was out LBW on 29.

Ali was then bowled for 60 and Scott Alderson followed him next over for 15.

Town were 133-3 but Charlie Coleman joined Ramya Upadhyay at the crease and the pair eased any tension and finished the game with a 74 run partnership.

Coleman made 54 not out and Upadhyay finished on 24 not out.

Town skipper Ashley Alderson said: "It was vital we got the win to get us back on track."

"Our batsmen showed good character after failing to chase lower totals over the last two weeks."

He added: "Dan Calver and Shaun Alderson also bowled brilliantly for us."

"Calver especially bowled well at the end showing his experience to remove the lower order."

Harlow Town II's batting frailties continued as they crashed to a 46-run defeat at lowly Woodford Green in division three of the 2nd XI league.

Yates (2-55) and Simon Rowell (6-79) shone with the ball as Woodford were bowled out for 180.

In reply, Town struggled to 134 all out with Ben Everden top scoring with 25.

Kevin Tilleard made 124 not out when Harlow Town III (251-6) drew with Wickford (197-7) in division three of the 3rd XI league.

Harlow Town IV (180-6; Paul Smith 82) won by four wickets at Upminster VI (175; Callum Fitzpatrick 5-36) in division two of the 4th XI league.

Harlow Town V (123) lost by 10 wickets against Wickford (127-0).

Potter Street & Church Langley avenged their early season defeat when they beat Stansted Hall and Elsenham CC away by 83 runs.

The visitors batted first in Saturday's Herts & Essex Cricket League division three match.

The visitors took advantage of the good batting conditions.

Opener Jeff Armstrong made a swift 58 before a 73-run partnership between Rob Anderson and captain Abid Khan helped set a competitive total of 213.

Hall were then bowled out for 130 with Terry Savanhu (2-15), Sam Charles (3-10) and Taran (2-4) doing the damage.

In division five, Potter Street II (322-7; Arnold James 130, Amar Ali 86 not out) beat Stansted II (278) by 44 runs.

Ali claimed 4-54 in Stansted's innings and M.S. Pavel picked up 3-44.

HARLOW Running Club member Richard Solomons finished ninth out of 78 finishers and first veteran 60 in the Gunpowder Parkrun at Waltham Abbey in a superb time of 20 minutes and 56 seconds.

He was followed home by Dave Page (25th) in 25.13 and his wife Janice (34th) in 25.56, both at their debut at the distance.

Murray triumph serves up treat for tennis chief

BY DAVID RIMMER

david.rimmer@hertsessexnews.co.uk

WILL Calvert is confident that Harlow Tennis Club can gain from the feel good factor generated by Andy Murray's fantastic win in the men's singles final at Wimbledon.

The tennis director and centre manager at the Latton Bush Centre club has never been one to get carried away but Calvert feels this magnificent achievement can trigger growth in the sport within the town.

He said: "Everybody is really excited about it here.

"It is the first time this has happened in 77 years and it will take time to sink in."

He added: "I hope and I am confident that the legacy of Andy's success will be increased participation from youngsters.

"I believe Murray will have two or three more years being at the top and this is a window of opportunity for the game."

Calvert, 52, has coached at Harlow for more than 30 years and the current captain of the U-18 Essex team, and has coached thousands of youngsters over that time.

He believes champions can emerge but the sport needs to ensure youngsters get exposure to tennis at a young age.

He said: "I believe that champions will often find a way as indeed Murray has done. However, they need to be exposed to the sport at a young age for their talent to emerge.

HOPE: Harlow Tennis Club coach Will Calvert at the Latton Bush venue

"All tennis partners (clubs, coaches and the Lawn Tennis Association) need to work to ensure that the window of opportunity that Murray's success has created is not wasted."

Harlow has four indoor courts and six outdoor courts.

Calvert said: "They are macadam hard courts. They play reasonably quickly."

It has about 300 members with around 200 of these being juniors.

Calvert added: "The user base includes free usage by schools and public hire and regional tournament programme runs into thousands."

Calvert, who predicted that Murray could one day win Wimbledon back in 2005 when the young Scot reached the third round was full of praise for the new champion.

He said: "It is a fantastic achievement. If you ask the players it is the tournament they all want to win the most."

'Great shakes as I watched champ win his crown at Wimbledon'

ANDREW FRAN CZAK, who has reported on sport for Star publishers, Herts & Essex Newspapers for nearly 25 years, was lucky enough to witness live one of the greatest ever British sporting achievements as Andy Murray captured the Wimbledon title.

MOMENTS after Andy Murray finally got the Wimbledon monkey off his back following his scintillating, spellbinding and superb straight sets victory over Novak Djokovic, I had the privilege of shaking the great man's hand as he spoke to the world's press.

Murray received a standing ovation as he walked into the plush press conference room at the All England Lawn Tennis Club, with the hardened hacks rightly fulsome in their praise of the man who had just succeeded in becoming the first British men's singles winner at Wimbledon since Fred Perry won the last of his three singles titles in SW19 in 1936.

The 26-year-old from Dunblane appeared shell-shocked at what he had done, and with his hands still visibly shaking with emotion he said: "The last 30 minutes have been a bit of a blur really. To come from 4-2 down in the third set I really don't know what to say just now.

"I worked so hard in that last game. It's the hardest few points I've had to play in my life. I still can't believe it – I can't get my head round winning Wimbledon."

As the press conference went on Murray began to enjoy his banter with the assembled writers.

Asked why after winning he didn't seem to turn to the players' box but turn to others in the crowd Murray answered, with a smile: "I was staring in the direction of a few of the guys in the press – obviously I've had a difficult relationship at times over the years. I know for you guys it's important I win this tournament. You know I tried my best, I worked as hard as I could to do it."

I tried to get my question to him which would have been 'Do you feel your win will inspire kids around the country to pick up tennis racquets?' but the invigilator turned away to the other side of the seated press and the final question came to Murray:

'Does he think it will take another 77 years for a top British player to win Wimbledon?'

Murray replied: "I think with the sort of money that's invested in the sport in this country then it shouldn't take another 70 odd years."

And with that he got up to leave and an orderly queue of reporters formed by the way out, eager to shake Murray's hand as he was whisked away to his next interview.

I joined them and Murray took the time to stop and shake as many hands as he could, including mine. I congratulated him heartily and he said 'thanks' – a wonderful moment for this reporter on a magical and memorable day at Wimbledon.

The atmosphere at the All England Club was more akin to a football match than a tennis game, with painted faces, flags and a throng of fanatical (and sunburnt) fans.

There wasn't a blade of grass to be seen as I wandered up and down the side of 'Murray Mount' and the anticipation of a thrilling final was fever pitch.

With a grounds pass I didn't have access to the centre court's press seats, but sneaked a standing-only place up in the gods in a sound-proofed box for radio.

It was thrilling to be able to witness such a historic sporting occasion first hand, and Murray certainly put all of our nerves through the shredder before finally securing his place in Wimbledon history. Hopefully his victory will inspire youngsters [locally] to take up tennis and one aspire to one day emulate magical Murray.

World Trials next for GB hopeful Osagie

ANDREW Osagie is set to compete in the World Trials at Birmingham this weekend, as he strives for a place in the Great Britain team.

The World Athletics Championships take place in Moscow next month.

Harlow Athletic Club member Osagie, an 800m runner has not previously competed in the World Championships, although Osagie has raced in the World Indoor Champs when he secured a bronze medal.

Former Burnt Mill School student Osagie was a disappointing eighth in the 800m race in the last Diamond League meeting at Lausanne in Switzerland last Thursday.

Osagie, 25, clocked one minute 46.59 seconds in the race, which was won by Mohammad Aman.

Aman clocked a time of 1:43.33.

Osagie's time was 1.19 seconds slower than when he came third in 1:45.50 in the previous Diamond League 800m men's race in Birmingham the previous week.

There was a Diamond League meeting in Paris last Saturday, but there was no 800m race.

The next Diamond League race is in Monaco on July 19.

Osagie will return to the scene of his greatest triumph when he races at the Olympic Stadium in London in the Sainsbury's Anniversary Games on July 26-28.

Matt's so close to GB win

HARLOW motor sport starlet Matt Hayden missed out on victory in Wales by 0.01 of a second in the third and fourth rounds of the British Karting Championship.

The third round of the Championship was held at Glan y Gors.

Matt was in great form.

In qualifying he came home fifth.

With each driver starting two of the three heats the Passmores School student started heat one from P4 and finished fifth.

Heat two was started from P3 and driving a great race Matt came home first to secure a pole position.

Sunday being finals day, Matt was in a confident mood and starting final one from P4 he led briefly but then dropped from the front two coming in fourth.

The main final saw Matt start in P4 and he made sure he stayed in touch with the leader and from about halfway of the strongly knowing those in front would eventually have to take a chance to take the win.

In the last lap, with the leader defending from the second kart, Matt caught the front two on the last bend and with all three racers having a tussle, the Harlow racer got into second and made a short sprint to the finish line with the other kart but just lost out in a photo finish!

"A great result and again also taking home the top rookie trophy," said Matt's father Rob.

Matt also drove brilliantly in round four of the championship at the PFI circuit in Lincolnshire.

Starting the main final on pole, Matt stayed in the hunt for his first win until the last couple of laps but due to collisions with other karts came home ninth.

Matt was the second highest points scorer and has moved up into fourth place in the British Championship for his age group.

20-lap race made a three-kart breakaway with the front two.

He made a slight mistake with about five laps remaining, allowing the front two a one-second gap but still driving

World hopefuls line up at Harlow

THE cream of British table tennis talent came to Harlow as Barry Hearn's Matchroom Sports World Championship of Ping Pong Series exploded into action at the first qualifier event on Saturday.

The BATTS centre, based at the Norman Booth Leisure Centre in Old Harlow, delivered a world class extravaganza of epic ping pong play with the Brit, Ashley Stokes, coming out victorious against a strong international field.

Eighty players from seven countries, including the Nigerian favourite Kazeem Adeleke and a strong Dutch contingent, descended on the Elderfield club dreaming of qualifying for the Matchroom Sport World Championship of Ping Pong Finals, which are being shown live on Sky Sports over the weekend of January 4-5, 2014.

The ping pong commenced with eight groups of 10 competitors, the top four qualifying through to the last 32 knockout phase.

But it was Stokes against Denis Neale in a gripping final, which the former won 15-8, which stood out.

"It's like the good old days of table tennis, and spectators were entertained all day with classic attacking and defending rallies," added Dove.

Hockey club future fears for Harlow

ALAN SCOTT

alan.scott@hertsessexnews.co.uk

FEARS are growing for the future of Harlow Hockey Club after three former first team men's captains quit.

The men's first team has been decimated and will join forces with the second team as Harlow is forced to cut one of its sides for the forthcoming East Men's Hockey League campaign.

Experienced players, last year's captain James Smith, and former skippers Joe Symonds and Kyle Plumridge have all joined neighbouring Bishop's Stortford Hockey Club.

Second team skipper Neil Boughtwood will captain the new team.

Amid concern over the high price of hiring the AstroTurf pitch at Sawbridgeworth's Leventhorpe Leisure Centre, combined with the lack of Harlow school children coming in and revitalising the club - which happened at its old home at the now closed down former site of Passmores School in Harlow - there are real fears over the future of the club.

Harlow Hockey Club (HHC) officials are also investigating whether it has a legal case for making sure a local authority provide it with an AstroTurf facility in Harlow.

This was thought to have been assured for several more years

FUTURE FEARS: Harlow Hockey Club is playing matches at a school nine miles away from their old site

when the original Passmores AstroTurf facility in Tendring Road was built, perhaps up to 2020.

HHC moved back to Harlow in December 2001 when the Tendring Road facility was completed. This followed a five-year exile when the club was forced to play matches at Stortford.

It was hoped when Passmores School moved to its present site in Traces Road, the hockey club could also transfer but the type of 3G pitch built at the new school is unsuitable for hockey.

So HHC was forced to quit the town.

The fact that HHC was left without a home when the old school closed could provide it with a ray of hope - if it could pursue an expensive legal case. "Someone cocked it up and no one wants to put their hand up and admit to it," fumed Boughtwood.

"A private health group run the [AstroTurf] pitches at Leventhorpe. They run it as a business. At first the [Leventhorpe] school was very pro-active at getting hockey teams together, but that has fizzled away. We are now dealing with a business. They don't care who uses the AstroTurf. We have to pay it and it's a hell of a lot more than what we were paying at Passmores.

"We couldn't play at the [new Passmores] because playing hockey on it [3G] is dangerous."

The new men's team will play in division six next season. "The guys [Smith, Symonds and Plumridge] wanted to play at a higher level. We were the first to say go for it," said Boughtwood. "We are sorry to see them go. But we are still here. We are still fighting. We have dropped one team but now we have a bigger squad."

FORMER Harlow Hockey Club chairman Bob Gotobed says more popular sports are being backed by secondary schools in the town, which is having an impact on the amount of youngsters playing hockey.

"It is obvious that some sports are more supported by the secondary schools especially as two of them have artificial surfaces that are not conducive to hockey. The real shame is the tournament that is held every year for the junior schools that has a great turn out but where can those youngsters then go to play," said Gotobed.

"I think it is a shame that the club is struggling but as there is no hockey pitch in Harlow they really had no choice but to move."

New first team men's captain Neil Boughtwood admits it has been a hugely difficult time for the club and the nine-mile trek to Sawbridgeworth is a bind for parents of children who want to play for the club on weekday nights for training with school the next day.

"The facilities at Leventhorpe are excellent. But moving out of Harlow clearly has not helped. Youngsters that don't drive are not able to get out of Harlow to Sawbridgeworth on a school night. Not being associated with a school in Harlow is very hard."

Boughtwood believes the club would thrive if it was based at a secondary school in Harlow. "It would certainly help. With a school we could filter people into the club," he explained.

"A few years ago the Passmores teachers played and got kids into the club. It would be lovely if we had a local base and a school would be an ideal situation. We need a constant flow of 14-, 15- and 16-year-olds."
